

Wrap-Around Language Game

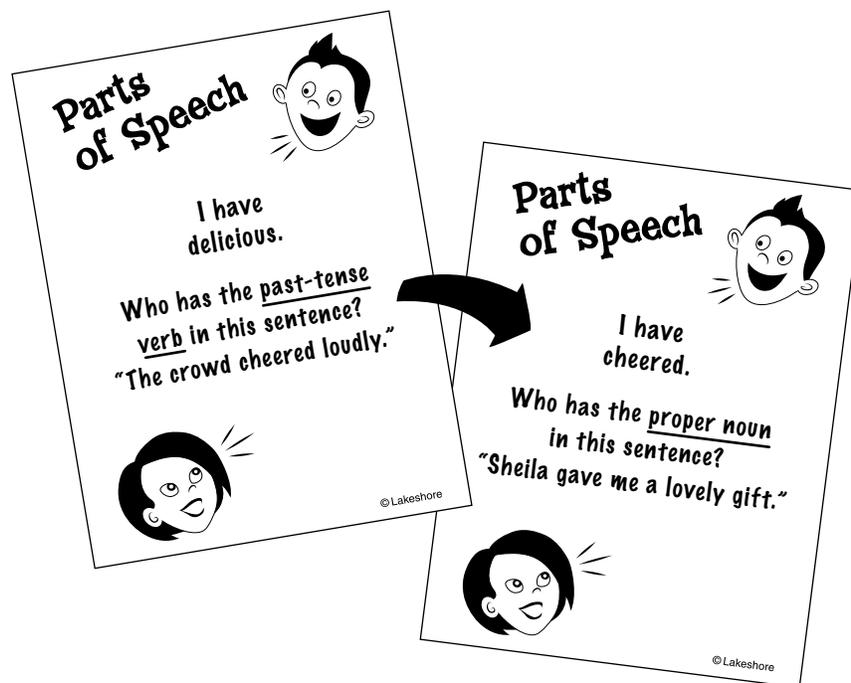

Grades 5-6

This easy-to-play game is a great way to practice essential language concepts with the whole class! As students match up the answers on their cards with questions on other students' cards, they get valuable practice with essential language skills.

How to Play

- Download and print the cards. Cut them apart on the dotted lines.
- Hand out one card to each student. If there are fewer than 35 students in your class, some will get more than one card. (In order to play the game correctly, all of the cards need to be played. Play can start with any card in the set.)
- Choose a student to go first, and have her read her card aloud. For example, the first student might read, "Who has the past-tense verb in this sentence? 'The crowd cheered loudly.'"
- The student who has the card with the word "cheered" then reads that answer aloud: "I have cheered." He will read the question at the bottom of his card, and the student with the card that answers the question responds.
- Every card in the set is connected to a card before it and a card after it. To keep the game moving at a quick pace, all students need to pay attention to every question that's asked!
- Play continues in this fashion until all of the cards have been played. The game will end with the same student who started play.

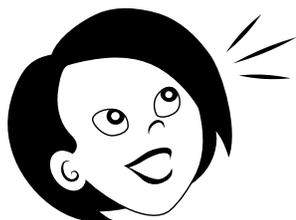

Parts of Speech

I have me.

Who has the adjective
in this sentence?

"We ate a delicious dinner."

© Lakeshore

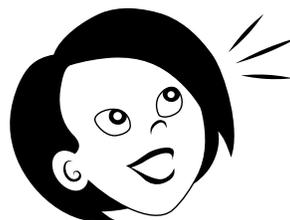

Parts of Speech

I have delicious.

Who has the past-tense
verb in this sentence?

"The crowd cheered loudly."

© Lakeshore

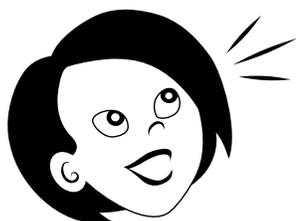

Parts of Speech

I have cheered.

Who has the proper noun
in this sentence?

"Sheila gave me a lovely gift."

© Lakeshore

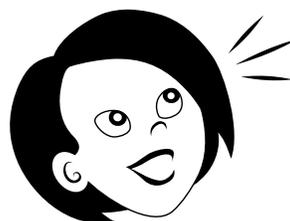

Parts of Speech

I have Sheila.

Who has the adverb
in this sentence?

"The tiny mouse quietly crept across the floor."

© Lakeshore

Parts of Speech

I have quietly.

Who has the proper noun in this sentence?

"Hannah dutifully practices piano one hour a day."

© Lakeshore

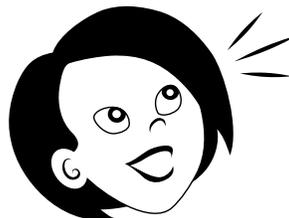

Parts of Speech

I have Hannah.

Who has the adverb in this sentence?

"The crowd cheered loudly."

© Lakeshore

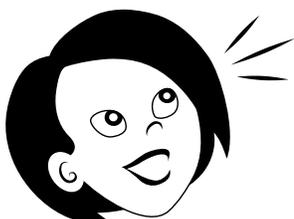

Parts of Speech

I have loudly.

Who has the noun in this sentence?

"Have you seen Sara's dog?"

© Lakeshore

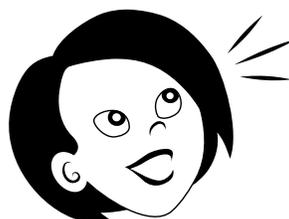

Parts of Speech

I have dog.

Who has the verb in this sentence?

"Ashley feeds her pets twice a day."

© Lakeshore

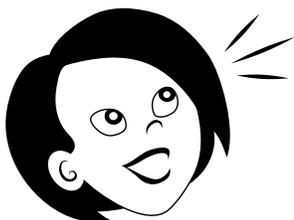

Parts of Speech

I have feeds.

Who has the pronoun
in this sentence?

"We ate a delicious dinner."

© Lakeshore

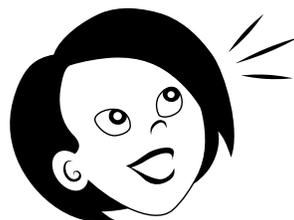

Parts of Speech

I have we.

Who has the verb in
this sentence?

"The Olympic swimmers
gracefully dive into the pool."

© Lakeshore

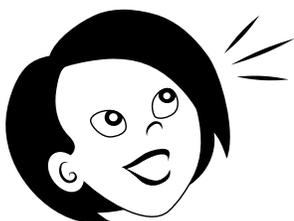

Parts of Speech

I have dive.

Who has the noun
in this sentence?

"The red backpack is mine."

© Lakeshore

Parts of Speech

I have backpack.

Who has the adverb
in this sentence?

"Juan quickly typed
his report."

© Lakeshore

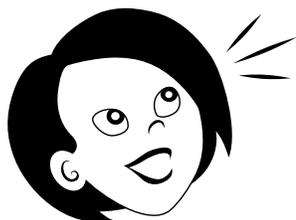

Parts of Speech

I have quickly.

Who has the pronoun
in this sentence?

"She made a mess in the garage."

© Lakeshore

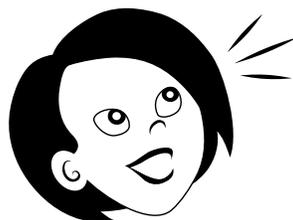

Parts of Speech

I have she.

Who has the noun
in this sentence?

"The crowd cheered loudly."

© Lakeshore

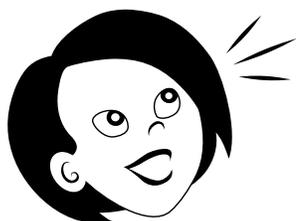

Parts of Speech

I have crowd.

Who has the verb
in this sentence?

"Hannah dutifully practices piano one hour a day."

© Lakeshore

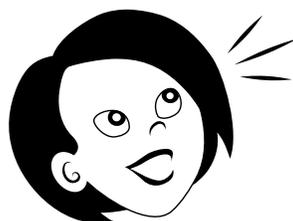

Parts of Speech

I have practices.

Who has the plural noun
in this sentence?

"The teacher taught her students to respect one another."

© Lakeshore

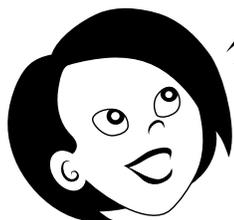

Parts of Speech

I have students.

Who has the adjective in this sentence?

"The caterpillar slowly transformed into a beautiful butterfly."

© Lakeshore

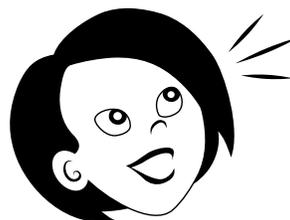

Parts of Speech

I have beautiful.

Who has the adverb in this sentence?

"John said that he often forgets to turn in homework."

© Lakeshore

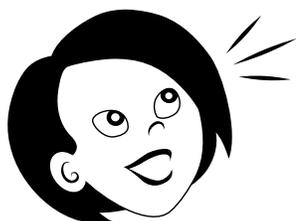

Parts of Speech

I have often.

Who has the past-tense verb in this sentence?

"The tiny mouse quietly crept across the floor."

© Lakeshore

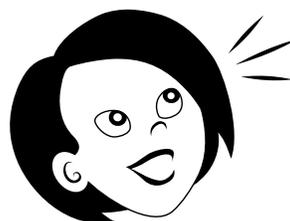

Parts of Speech

I have crept.

Who has the plural noun in this sentence?

"Ashley feeds her pets twice a day."

© Lakeshore

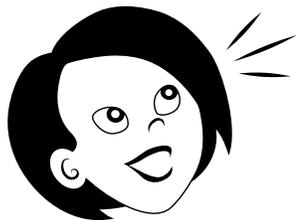

Parts of Speech

I have pets.

Who has the adjective
in this sentence?

"The Olympic swimmers
gracefully dive into the pool."

© Lakeshore

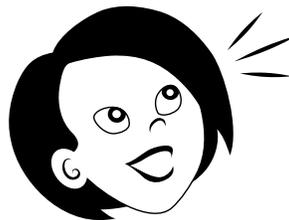

Parts of Speech

I have Olympic.

Who has the pronoun
in this sentence?

"The red backpack is mine."

© Lakeshore

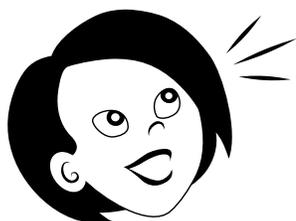

Parts of Speech

I have mine.

Who has the past-tense verb
in this sentence?

"She made a mess in
the garage."

© Lakeshore

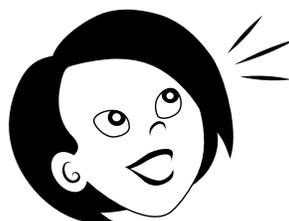

Parts of Speech

I have made.

Who has the adverb
in this sentence?

"The caterpillar slowly transformed into a beautiful butterfly."

© Lakeshore

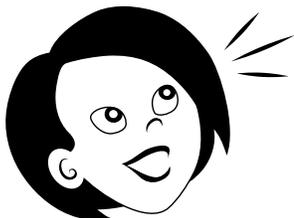

Parts of Speech

I have slowly.

Who has the pronoun
in this sentence?

"John said that he often forgets to turn in homework."

© Lakeshore

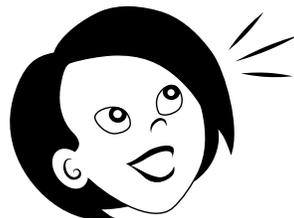

Parts of Speech

I have he.

Who has the plural noun
in this sentence?

"The Olympic swimmers
gracefully dive into the pool."

© Lakeshore

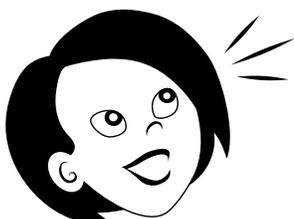

Parts of Speech

I have swimmers.

Who has the past-tense verb
in this sentence?

"The teacher taught her
students to respect one another."

© Lakeshore

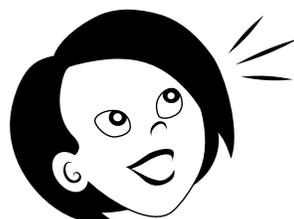

Parts of Speech

I have taught.

Who has the adjective
in this sentence?

"The tiny mouse quietly crept across the floor."

© Lakeshore

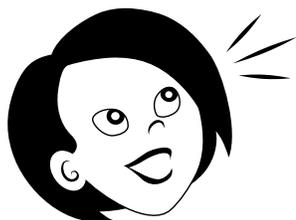

Parts of Speech

I have tiny.

Who has the pronoun
in this sentence?

"Have you seen Sara's dog?"

© Lakeshore

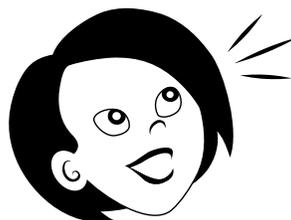

Parts of Speech

I have you.

Who has the proper noun
in this sentence?

"Juan quickly typed
his report."

© Lakeshore

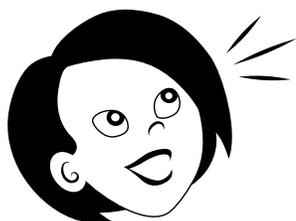

Parts of Speech

I have Juan.

Who has the adverb in
this sentence?

"The Olympic swimmers
gracefully dive into the pool."

© Lakeshore

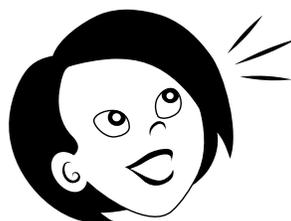

Parts of Speech

I have gracefully.

Who has the adjective
in this sentence?

"The red backpack is mine."

© Lakeshore

Parts of Speech

I have red.

Who has the past-tense verb in this sentence?

"The caterpillar slowly transformed into

a beautiful butterfly."

© Lakeshore

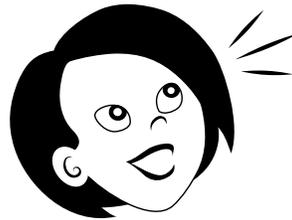

Parts of Speech

I have transformed.

Who has the noun in this sentence?

"John said that he often forgets to turn in homework."

© Lakeshore

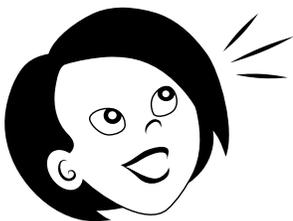

Parts of Speech

I have homework.

Who has the pronoun in this sentence?

"Sheila gave me a lovely gift."

© Lakeshore